Homicide at Boouville, Mo.

The Boonville, Mo., correspondent of the St. Louis Republican writes on the 14th: A terrible tragedy was enacted on Saturday, just at dusk, at Billingsville, a little town some seven miles from this city, on the Boonville branch of the Pacific Railroad, being the location of the principal stone quarries from which the stone for the piers and abutments for the Boonville Railroad is obtained. The parties to the afray were Patrick McNamara, a squad boss at the quarry; James O'Neil, an ex-boss, and three former employes, by name Tom Grancy, Joe Mason and Pat Murphy. Some days since McNamara discharged the three men above mentioned for incompetency, and immediately afterwards they were paid by O'Neil, who was then working a squad in close vicinity to McNamara. The latter objected to such action, and reported O'Neil to Chief. Engineer Coolidge, who at once discharged him and the three ojectionable men. This result very naturally created considerable ill-feeling against McNamara, and at the very first opportunity the four prepared to take revenge. Meeting McNamara as they stepped from the train Saturday evening, O'Neil, after some words, struck him, when, as if this was the signal, the other three men sprang upon the intended victim and commenced beating him severely. McNamara, although having but the use of one arm, and even that cramped up against the persons of his antagonists, managed to draw his revolver, and getting it under his left arm, with the muzzle pointing to the rear, shot Graney through the heart; then bringing his pistol hand to the front secured two down-ward ranging shots, the first taking effect in Mason's thigh, between the knee and hip, and the second going into the same man's groin, just at the base of the thigh, thus freeing himself from two of his assailants. McNamara snapped a cap at Murphy, who, in company with O'Neil, concluded that discretion was the better part of valor, and made off at a rapid rate. McNamara came to the city early Sunday morning and delivered himself up.

The latter was found to be shockingly injured, both balls taking fearful effect, tearing the bones of his right leg beyond all hopes of recovery. Mortification is now setting in, and the physicians pronounce death but a question of a few days at the farthest. McNamara was before the grand jury on Monday, and was discharged on the ground of justifiable homicide. He is rather a dangerous man for roughs to tackle, having about a year since, at the building of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, killed three men in five shots. In appearance he is most gentlemanly, quiet and unassuming; but when worked up by ruffians is protty near

A DIFFICULT QUESTION ANSWERED. -Can anybody tell me why, when Eve was manufactured from one of Adam's ribs, a hired girl wasn't made at the time to wait on her ?- Et

We can, easily. Because Adam never came whining to Eve with a ragged stocking to be darped, a collar string to be sewed on, or a glove to be mended 'right away, quick now!' Because he never read the newspaper until the sun got behind the palm trees, and then stretched himself yawning out, ain't supper most ready, my dear?' Not he. He made the fire and hung over the tea kettle himself, we'll venture, and pulled the radishes, and peeled the banannas, and did everything else that lie ought to. He milked the cows and fed the chickens, and looked after the pigs himself. He never brought home a half a dozen friends to dinner when Eve hadn't any fresh pomegranates, and the mango season was over. He never stayed out until 11 o'clock to a 'ward meeting, hurraning for the out-and-out candidate, and scolding because poor dear Eve was sitting up and crying, inside the gates. To be sure, he acted rather cowardly about the apple gathing time, but then that don't depreciate his general helpfulness about the garden He never played billiards, nor drove fast horses nor chocked Eve with cigar smoke. He never loafed around corner groceries while solitary Eve was rocking little Cain's pradle at home. In short, he did not think she was especially created for the purpose of waiting upon him, and wasn't under the impression that it disgraced a man to lighten his wife's cares a little. That's the reason that Eve did not need a hired girl, and we wish it was the reason that none of her descendants did. - Life Illustrated. THE KHEDIVE .- The Khedive of Egypt was educated in France, and he is essentially a market rates, Frechman in character and taste, and all he does shows the influence of his early education. He has love of power and display, with no scruples of conscience to deter him in any of his plans. Right and wrong, justice and injustice, are words which are not familiar to his thoughts. The moral elevation of his people are not the ends, probably, which he seeks, but those material changes which will strike and RIES GUANO, PLASTER attract the notice of the world. He is absolute the at the lowest market rates. monarch of Egypt, except only that he is obliged to pay tribute of about half a million pounds annually to the Sultan of Turkey. He levies such taxes as he pleases, administers his own government and justice as be pleases, and has all the property and lives of his subjects at his disposal. Everything is taxed in Egypt. A man's body, his children, his income, his grain, his land, his palm trees, his donkey, his chickens, and even the camel and horse manure which the children gather in the streets and dry for fuel, are taxed, and after taxes are paid barely enough is left for the subsistence of the poor. He has Ministers of the Interior, Forcign Affairs, and Finance, and he has lately established an Assembly of Delegates from the different provinces, who meet every summer at Cairo, for the purpose of giving information from every part of the country, and advising upon the budget proposed by the ministers, and the best manner of distributing and collecting the taxes. This is the first approach toward a government of the people. But as the delegates are appointed by the Khedive, and are only an advisory body, this is no very great advance toward a democratic government.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

Immediately cured and Full Vigor Restored.

This distressing Affection—which renders life miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgencies. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the natural powers are lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions weakened. Loss of Procreative Power Nervous, Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, and Wasting of the Frame, Cough, Consumption, Decay and Death.
